

Factsheet commissions FGw/FGw in transition

At the faculties, 7 open commissions will be installed to think about the future of the faculty.

1. Internal quality culture: Analysis of the current organization and quality culture and a concrete plan of action in order to change the culture at the faculty in such a way that there is trust before and accountability afterwards.
2. Research climate and balance between education and research: The research council makes an analysis of the current situation and invites Rethink in this. Initiative with the research council.
3. 8-8-4 structure: Will deal with the current division of semesters.
4. Homo Academicus: Organization of multiple debates about subjects such as the professional with the university. Members: At least Huib Dijstelbloem and Yolande Jansen.

There will be two commissions that will have a permanent character as a sounding board:

5. Financial situation faculty: This will answer the questions about the financial situation that have arisen and after this will have a permanent character to guarantee transparency in the future. Members are: Two professors, two other members from the academic staff, one student, one member of the obp (support staff).
6. Temporary contracts and an integrated HRM-policy: Focuses on university discussions and possible implications of faculty policy. Will then receive a permanent character as a sounding board for the faculty board in the opening of an integral HRM-policy. Members: Six members, not specified.

Aside from this there will be a commission in which mainly the different groups will take place:

7. Management model: Summer 2015 a first analysis has to be given, just as a plan of action and a timeline. Members consist of representatives of ReThink, Humanities Rally, OR, FSR, heads of departments and directors of education.

Aside from these commissions several working groups will work on the situation around their study. Here the initiative will be with the studies concerned.

For master education there will be no specific working groups, studies themselves will work on what needs to happen. On may 18th there was a meeting to talk about this with all of the directors of education. With the analysis that comes from this, especially organizational and financial in nature, the studies themselves will work on create an upstanding and affordable masters curriculum.
